Teen Dating Violence
Tipsheet for Educators

What is teen dating violence?

Teen (or adolescent) dating violence refers to physical, psychological, sexual, or stalking aggression experienced in a dating or romantic relationship before age 18.

Physical involves the use or threat of physical force (e.g., hitting, pushing)

Psychological can involve trying to belittle or control a partner (e.g., name calling, constant criticism)

Sexual can involve pressuring or forcing a partner into sexual activity (e.g., unwanted touching, sending unwanted sexual messages)

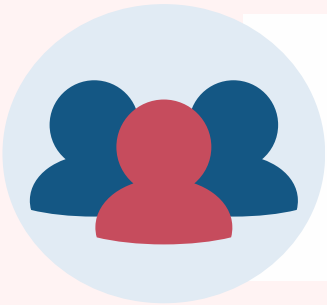
Stalking involves unwanted and/or repeated surveillance (e.g., following, monitoring text messages) that leads to feelings of fear

Each of these forms of dating violence can take place in person or involve cyber/online activities.

Content by: Dr. Brett Holdfeld

Teen Dating Violence
Tipsheet for Educators

Prevalence of teen dating violence



- In a recent study with teens in grades 9 & 10 in Canada, 1 in 3 reported experiencing some form of teen dating violence
- Psychological violence was the most commonly reported form of dating violence perpetration and victimization, followed by cyber violence, and then physical violence [1]

Perpetration and Victimization Rates [1]

9.2%

Of youth surveyed had perpetrated psychological dating violence

7.7%

Of youth surveyed had perpetrated cyber dating violence

7.1%

Of youth surveyed had perpetrated physical dating violence

27.3%

Of youth surveyed had experienced psychological dating violence

17.1%

Of youth surveyed had experienced cyber dating violence

11.5%

Of youth surveyed had experienced physical dating violence

Impact on Teens

- Perpetration and victimization of teen dating violence are associated with negative health, relationship, and academic outcomes
- Experiencing teen dating violence is associated with depression, anxiety, and problematic substance use. This may be particularly true for women and gender-diverse teens [2-5]

Teen Dating Violence
Tipsheet for Educators

How can educators help?

1. Raise Awareness

- Recognizing this issue, and raising awareness within your school, is an important first step
- This may involve sharing information with other educators and school staff about the signs and impacts of teen dating violence, and ways they can respond to student disclosures

2. Teach and Model Healthy Relationship Skills

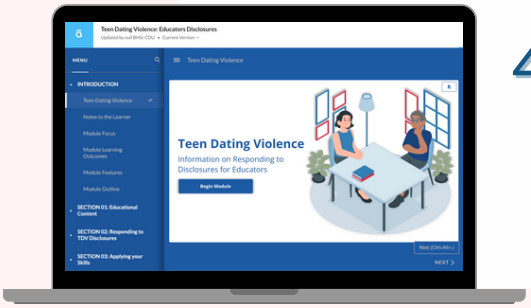
- Support students to develop healthy relationship skills by learning and practicing things like emotional regulation, stress management, conflict resolution and consent

3. Create a Safe Environment

- There are steps you can take to help students feel safe when disclosing experiences of dating violence
- These include being an active listener, being empathetic, and planning next steps with the student (e.g., linking them to more resources or other professionals with training in this area)

3. Help Create a School Policy

- This should clearly define what teen dating violence is, and the role of students and educators in addressing it



4. Complete online training

- For more information on how to respond to disclosures of teen dating violence from students, complete PREVNet's free, interactive online training.

Teen Dating Violence
Tipsheet for Educators

Citations:

1. Exner-Cortens, D., Baker, E., & Craig, W. (2021). The national prevalence of adolescent dating violence in Canada. Journal of Adolescent Health, 69(3), 495–502. https://doi.org/10.1016/j.jadohealth.2021.01.032
2. Hébert, M., Moreau, C., Blais, M., Lavoie, F., & Guerrier, M. (2017). Child sexual abuse as a risk factor for teen dating violence: Findings from a representative sample of Quebec youth. Journal of Child & Adolescent Trauma, 10, 51-61. https://doi.org/10.1007/s40653-016-0119-7
3. Martin-Storey, A., & August, E. G. (2016). Harassment due to gender nonconformity mediates the association between sexual Minority identity and depressive symptoms. Journal of Sex Research, 53(1), 85–97. https://doi.org/10.1080/00224499.2014.980497
4. Taquette, S. R., & Monteiro, D. L. M. (2019). Causes and consequences of adolescent dating violence: A systematic review. Journal of Injury and Violence Research, 11(2), 137. https://doi.org/10.5249/jivr.v11i2.1061
5. Piolanti, A., Waller, F., Schmid, I., & Foran, H. M. (2023). Long-term adverse outcomes associated with teen dating violence: A systematic review. Pediatrics, 151(6), e2022059654. https://doi.org/10.1542/peds-2022-059654

Additional Resources:

1. PREVNet - Teen Dating Violence for Educators
2. Teen Dating Violence - Responding to Disclosures for Educators (Online Training)

Financial contribution:

Public Health Agency of Canada
Agence de la santé publique du Canada